SING LEE CO.

Our Local Grist.

Dr. J. J. Pittenger, Dentist, will be in Wrangell from Sept. 25th to Oct. 5th.

The Wrangell Robe Tannery will tan your Furs and Hides properly.

E. WEST & P. HAGERT.

After being north with the Cottage City, went south Monday evening, loaded with salmon, and a good passenger list.

The Capella was taken to Crittenton City, Monday, to treat her to a washing of freewater to free her from "carbuncles" and tubercles.

Receiver Davidson came down on the City of Seattle, spent a day or two looking after business and returned to his home at Juneau the 17th.

Rev. Harry P. Corser returned from our sister town Ketchikan on the Humboldt, last Thursday. He says Ketchikan is a rustling town and going ahead rapidly.

Messrs. Babcock and Seoce, the hunters, after putting in a week or more in this section, and capturing all the game they cared to, took their departure on the Seattle, promising to return next year. Several parties in town were the recipients of fine gifts at their hands for courtesies shown them.

Walter Waters is painting the new native school building.

Judge Munley was a passenger down on the Cottage, from Funter Bay.

Deputy Marshal Grant made a flying trip to Tonka on Parrott's Emily M., the latter having been run aground.

Larry Kornhauser came down from Juneau at the throttle of the steamer Ragnhild. Larry has been running a little steamer out to the westward.

The Peerless was a trifle late getting in, Saturday, owing to running into a fog bank that held her up for five hours down in Summer Straits. She made a trip to Coronation Island and brought away 25 tons of ore for shipment to the smelter at Tacoma. The ore, it is said, will go $50 to the ton. The Peerless also brought over nine men who go below for the winter.

Messrs. Woolbridge and Lowry were in from their Hans Island marble quarries, last week. They are getting on well with their development work. The Woolbridge men were lately surprised on getting up one morning to find one of the geese that has made its home in the lot adjoining the Surveyor's office, sitting just outside the door of their cabin. The fowl left its master and says, are getting things in fine shape at their quarries.

Dr. S. C. Sharick came over from Skagway on the Peerless, to spend Sunday with his Wrangell friends, returning Monday. The doctor says he is in full right. The man has been running most of the summer. The cannery has put up a good pack of fish; the health of the community is good, and all are happy. The Marble Creek people, he says, are getting things in fine shape at their quarries.

The Peacock was a trifle late getting in, the past season, came up last Thursday on the Helen Payne, after a few supplies, that would bridge them over the two or three weeks that it will take them to complete the season's work. The cannery season had virtually closed at that cannery last week, and Mr. Swartz is pleased to know that the record of years has been broken, and that over 15,000 cases of good fish has been put up.

S. S. Kincaid now has one of the prettiest cottages in this section.

Wm. Jameson left by the Dolphin last Thursday for Ketchikan.

Sing Lee says he wants to sell his "whole chess."

Miss Georgia Cook returned from Telegraph Creek on the Mount Royal.

Miss Mary McLean arrived on the Humboldt to teach the Native school.

After an absence of several weeks, Mr. I. Frohman returned on the Humboldt.

George Card and wife were over from their logging camp Saturday and Sunday.

The Ketchikan Journal says that the salmon pack at the Loring cannery will be 75,000.

F. E. Smith came in from the logging camp, Sunday, to register a boom of 200,000 feet of good logs.

J. F. Collins is the proud possessor of a fine new shotgun—a present from Messrs. Babcock and Seoce.

Dr. John Steiner, after doing some development work on his Basin claims, returned to Douglas last week.

The Jefferson made the last trip to Seattle and return in six days and seventeen hours. That's pretty good running.

A communication from Mayor Jenson on the question of water works is unavoidably crowded over to next week.

Mrs. Case is able to be about again. She desires to thank the ladies who were so kind to her during her recent illness.

W. D. Grant, L. C. Patenaude, Ed. Weber, Capt. Johnson and Harry Gartley enjoyed a great day with the trout, Monday.

Postmaster Warden has a copy of the laws on Forest Reserves that is a mighty handy little book in these parts, just now.

Messrs. Jury and Hills didn't leave on the Princess May for Seattle, last week, but took the Dolphin. The P. M. didn't come in on her down trip.

Fred E. Wright, of the U. S. Geological department, has been in town a portion of the past week, looking into matters in connection with his work.

Henry Strasser has been building the walks and leveling off the grounds around the new school building, which means that it is done in ship shape.

Councilman Coulter is one of numerous nimrods at this place, and Saturday raised a fairly good subscription to repair the "Hunters' Rest" over on the flats.

The steamer Mabel brought J. A. Mason and family into town from Union Bay, Sunday last. Mr. Mason said they were getting up a fine pack of good fish.

The Lake Bay cannery people have filled all the cans they had and have shut down, after getting up 15,000 cases. The Antelope and her people, who have been fishing out there, have returned home.

Owners of claims in the Basin Mining section are coming into town, and the samples of gold-bearing quartz they are bringing out adds new faith in the belief that that will be a great mining belt some day.

Wonder if the teachers of the Wrangell schools are to be "teach agriculture in its minutest detail"? That's what our ex-officio Supt. of Public Instruction told us last spring they must be able to do.

The Humboldt was pretty badly shaken up by striking a big iceberg, about two hrs from Douglas, on her up trip. No further damage than bruising her nose and frightening her passengers, however.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Young came over from Shakan last week and spent a day or two in town, greeting their many old friends. Mr. Young reported everything prosperous on the West Coast. It seemed natural to see this genial couple on our streets.

Those who wish to get nursery stock of any kind have a good chance now. George Snyder can give you prices on vines, shrubs and trees grown at the Quaker Nursery of Salem, Oregon, from where they can be sent in absolute safety. Order now.

Fishermen say that this season has been a poor one for the business. Owing to the Wrangell cannery not running, there were more fishermen, and the prices have not been nearly so good as heretofore. This naturally works a hard-ship on the boys.

The Princess Beatrice came into this port Saturday night and brought Mr. Hanbury of London, England, for his annual hunt up the Stikine River. Mr. Hanbury is one of the Thibet Creek Mining Co., operating placer mines on Thibet Creek, B. C.

A Japanese man and woman arrived here Friday morning and Saturday evening, giving a moving picture show at the dining room of the mill company's mess house, and had a good audience. The mill company furnished them lights, the voltage of the Electric Light Co.'s dynamo being too high.

Mr. Harry Brice came up from Ketchikan on the City of Seattle, last week, and spent several days visiting relatives and friends in his old home town. Harry says the mine is getting better all the time; and we're glad to hear it. Mrs. Brice's visiting below.

Many Wrangellites remember with kindly remembrance Mr. John Babcock, who conducted a barber business here two years ago. Well, Mr. Babcock has tired of "single blessedness" and last week was united in marriage with Mrs. Alice Beebe, at Ketchikan. The Sentinel extends its hearty congratulations.

A little less than a year ago Guy V. Carson bought the store and business of J. G. Grant. After conducting the business successfully, he has sold out to Lauron R. Milligan, who took charge on the 1st inst. Mr. Milligan is a young man of good business ability, and having many friends, is certain to succeed.

While thanking the people of Wrangell for their very liberal patronage during the time I have been in business in the town, I would like to ask those who are indebted to me to come forward and make a settlement. Having sold out, I desire to have all accounts settled at once.

G. V. CARSON.

A Companior was taken from the Humboldt on the 11th inst. The steamer Ragnhild, Capt. I. M. Hofstad, went to Juneau, last week. She had hardly left town when "word" came from Deputy Marshal Shoup of Ketchikan, asking that she come down and take him out on a business trip. A message was sent to Juneau and back came the little steamer, and Sunday she went to Ketchikan to answer the summons.

Public school opened Monday, in the old quarters. Prof. Nash, principal, enrolled 18 pupils in the intermediate department, and Mrs. L. R. Milligan, teacher of the primary, enrolled 31. Enrollment is in all, 49. The reason for the small number is that the new school building is not yet finished, and the pupils have not arrived for the new school building. It is believed that Wrangell will have the most successful school year in the town's history.

It is the automobile pace that kills.

If you would succeed, learn to know what you can't do.

At least half the people who go to law are fully convinced that justice is blind.

A Pennsylvania church pays its rent with a June rose. It's lucky the rent day doesn't fall in February.

It is comforting to reflect that poor old Rojestvensky never saw a fraction of 1 per cent of all those jokes.

There would be more heart trouble in the world if the girls were as sweet and cuddlesome as they appear in the pictures in the 10-cent magazines.

A Tennessee man has been fined for snoring in church. Serves him right. One snoring man in church is a nuisance to those who want to sleep.

Tom Lawson is not complaining because he is $1,000,000 poorer than he was a year ago. He has had that much, if not more, in advertising.

Any wicked nurse who tries to put the czarowitz to sleep by threatening that Togo will get him will be instantly discharged if the czar finds it out.

An irresponsible scribbler, says Editor Bok, "can swear like a pirate." Maybe Editor Bok can, but we refuse to believe he ever does so unladylike a thing.

Miss Ellen Stone has returned to the Balkans. If she is in danger of being captured again, we suggest that the magazines arrange for her ransom this time.

We will take more stock in these stories about the healthfulness of Panama when the life insurance companies begin to take risks on a man who is going there.

Young men who imagine themselves to be the most miserable of human beings because their sweethearts rejected them should visit the divorce courts and discover their mistake.

Nicholas is perfectly right in supposing that his disabled ships will be safer—for the czar—in the hands of the American government than if left to the tender mercies of the Japanese.

Young Willie Ziegler proposes to use his $30,000,000 for the purpose of discovering the north pole. In this cool manner probably he will be able to escape the accusation, when it is all over, of having "burned up" his money.

Somebody has hunted up the figures and found that the average salary of a Harvard professor is $3,000, while the average minister in the vicinity of Boston draws $600. This may partially explain why the theological schools are not turning away applicants.

As an argument in favor of peace it is suggested that every shot from a 12-inch gun costs $710. The argument is effective to a degree, but the fact remains that there are occasions when an effective shot from a 12-inch gun is worth many times its cost.

Stamp collectors must have had a shock when they learned that the Earl of Crawford's collection of the United States stamps, alleged to be the finest in the world, travels with him, and took all chances of wind and water on board the ship Valhalla, in the recent ocean yacht race. If some enthusiasts possessed that treasure they would stay ashore and live in a safe deposit vault.

Clerks of the railway mail service who work on the trains to and from New York, and who have no homes in or near the city, have an organization which ministers to their comfort and is operated on an economical basis. They have a lodging-house, and each of the seven hundred members pays twelve dollars a year. The moderate outlay secures for him a clean bed whenever in New York and the use of a reading-room. Intelligent co-operative organization is thus doing excellent work.

History is made rapidly in these times. The first steel skeleton building ever erected is about to be demolished to make room for a twenty-story office structure. The building, known as the Tower Building, stands on lower Broadway, New York City. When the architect submitted the plans for it to the building department seventeen years ago, the members of the department were so puzzled that they had to turn the whole matter over to a special board of expert examiners. For the first time in the world a building had been designed in which the entire weight of walls and floors was supported by the steel skeleton, and the building laws contained no provision for such a structure. But the experts accepted the plans, and the modern "skyscraper" was born.

The greatest evil and most serious complaint against the management of the railways is not that the rates are too high, but that gross favoritism characterizes the administration of the rate schedules. When two competing corporations send their products over the same route and are charged the same rate it is possible for railway management to enrich one of them and bankrupt the other by granting rebates to one and refusing it to the other. This is the outrage that is the source of most of the bitter feeling against transportation companies and the clamor for railway rate legislation. In the opinion of many men whose position and reputation ought to be a guarantee of sound judgment in the premises the demand should not be for additional legislation, but for faithful enforcement of existing law.

Society has passed an unwritten law abolishing old age. Unlike many written laws, it is being enforced. Where is the venerable grandmother who used, in black dress and black cap, to sit in the chimney corner knitting the children's stockings? Arrayed in a beautiful pea green silk gown and a flowered hat, her gray hair done in a naught pompadour, she is out helping, receiving at a fashionable function or attending the latest musical comedy at the theater. Where is the "lean and slumped pantaloons" who used to spend the long days, "spectacles on nose and pouch on side," sunning himself on the front porch or hobbling about the house and yard on a cane? He is down at the office or store working as energetically and ambitiously as he did twenty years ago, or out at the ball game, cheering as lustily as the most vociferous small boy on the bleachers. A writer in Scribner's recalls that when Washington was 50 years old he shrank from accepting the presidency on the ground that he had reached "the advanced season of life." Henry G. Davis was a quarter century older than this when he ran for vice president. Some thought Mr. Davis had reached "the advanced season of life" and passed it, but it was impossible to make him think so. When Froude, the historian, was elected rector of St. Andrew's he remarked that the honor gave him pleasure as a recognition of what he "had done." "As we advance in life," he said, "the question is no longer what we shall do." He spoke at 51 in the tone of an old man. Young manhood used to end at 30 and old age for men began at 45. A single woman was an old maid at 25 and a married woman thought at 40 that age required her to begin to quit society and make room for the "younger generation." We have changed all this. A man is now young until he is 45 and middle aged the rest of his life. Spinster don't become old maids any more. They are girls until 35, when they become bachelors maids. Married women are young at 40, after which, like their husbands after 45, they enjoy a perennial middle age. There may be persons scattered here and there who regard themselves as old and will submit to be banished, as the aged of past generations were, from business, amusements and society, but if there be any such their number is small and they are all well past the biblical three score and ten mark. Prof. Shaler of Harvard regards the abolition of old age as a sign of progress. Brutal and savages, as he points out, either kill their superannuates or leave them to starve. On rising from savagery to barbarism men set their aged as a class apart and revere them for their wisdom and dignity. It is mark of an advance in civilization when they are "readopted into the association and are allowed to go along with the business of life in the manner of other people." They are allowed nowadays to go along not only with the business of life, but also with its enjoyments; and the sum of human good and human happiness is thereby greatly increased. The utility and happiness of a life depends not on its length but on its average breadth—not on the number of years, but on the number of its years which are filled with useful exertion and innocent pleasure. It is disputed whether the average length of life is increasing. That the abolition of the old fashioned "old age" is increasing the average breadth of it seems scarce open to question.

Stamp collectors must have had a shock when they learned that the Earl of Crawford's collection of the United States stamps, alleged to be the finest in the world, travels with him, and took all chances of wind and water on board the ship Valhalla, in the recent ocean yacht race. If some enthusiasts possessed that treasure they would stay ashore and live in a safe deposit vault.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR

Crepe de chine in one of the many shades of white—pure white, cream, ivory and old ivory, pearl white and still others—fashions the most modish bridal toilettes. A Parisian creation is pictured with a yoke of real lace and an under waistcoat of the same, the bolero draped and the girdle following the outline of the waistcoat. The sleeve is a very short puff caught into an upstanding cuff that tops the lace frills to the elbow. The skirt is one of the voluminous patterns shirred to the band and with two flounces of real lace festooned at the hem.

Build Up Your Weak Points.

In all persons there are weak points in the physical and "mental anatomy." These tender spots can be made entirely firm and trustworthy. I once knew a man of remarkable memory, who had learned how to remember, by affirming that he could remember. So well did he get the fact lodged in his mind that he became a public lecturer on how to build up the memory.

The trouble is this—when we find a weak point, we always affirm the weakness, not the strength, of the function or organ. To be always saying that we have a weak head, and that it is liable to start to ache at any moment, is to build up that very condition.

The whole world is facing fear and enduring ills that are not necessary. Just close down on this anticipating business and affirm the weak points out of existence.

Can't you say? Well, that's just why you suffer. You made every deduction in your success and happiness by negative "affirmations." Now turn and affirm the other way.

This will amend health, character, disposition, success, memory, social and all infirm features of your spiritual and physical being. Affirm that you are not weak at any point, that you are moral, competent, successful, strong, worthy and happy. Don't affirm a few

A girl can never feel a mosquito bite if it is through an openwork stocking.

The only queer thing than the way women are dressed is the way they sometimes aren't.

Riding in an automobile makes a woman think of the way she would look if her husband was president of the United States.

Some girls have such a way of fooling themselves that when you squeeze their fingers they think you are teaching them algebra.

It makes a man feel like a criminal to think how the $2 box of candy he is taking home could have bought eight rare cigars of some use to the world.

There is nothing gives a mother more satisfaction than to have another hate her, because then she knows she is jealous of how smart her children are.

A woman's idea of a successful afternoon party is where they eat refreshments so that they can't touch their dinner, and they have headaches all evening.

WOMEN AND FASHION

A TRIO OF EVENING FROCKS.

1. Striped silk in light and dark green, trimmed with green velvet ribbon and puffs of light green chiffon. Ercu lace is used on the corsage.
2. White crepe de chine, trimmed with lace medallions set in shaded green chiffon roses.
3. Pale yellow pompadour silk, with yellow and pink flowers. Yellow chiffon is used on the bodice and the side pieces are of wide embroidery, matching the colors in the frock.

I wonder so that mothers ever fret
At little children clinging to their gown.
Or that the footprints, when the days are wet,
Are ever black enough to make them frown.
If I could kiss a rosy, restless foot
And hear a patter in my home once more;
If the white feet into their grave had tripped,
I could not blame you for your heartache then!

There is far more in affirmations than in denials. If we deny, we admit, which sounds like a contradiction, but is not one. Just take up point after point, and clear out your long train of torments, no matter what they are.

Make your intelligence build up your weak points. It can easily do it!—Dr. Paul Edwards.

What Wives Should Remember.

That Adam was made first.
That he pays the freight."
That "blessed are the meek."
That confidence begets confidence.
That nine men in ten detect gossip.
That all angels are not of your sex.
That men sometimes have "nerves."
That husbands have troubles of their own.

That there should be no place like home.

That it takes two to prolong a family jar.

That the least said is the soonest mended.

That with all his faults you love him still.

That home is more than half what you are.

That you should have no secrets from him.

That woman's best weapon is her weakness.

That wives are unusually favored in this country.

That his typewriter cannot help it if she is pretty.

That a man likes neatness in your attire at all times.

That he does not get sleepy the same moment that you do.

That he is not in love with every woman he glances at.

That you should not run up bills without his knowledge.

That she who puts on the gloves should know how to spar.

That your relationship is closer to him than to your mother.

That a prompt and pointed answer does not turn away wrath.

That 8 p. m. is 60 minutes past 7 o'clock, not 15 minutes to 9.

That he expects you to look your best when you go out with him.

That it does not improve his razor to use it for chiropractical purposes.

Noted Mexican Beauty.

Senor Dona Amada Diaz de la Torre, the eldest daughter of President Diaz of Mexico, is one of the most beautiful women of the southern republic.

She is very progressive in her ideas and her influence with the President is unbounded.

In point of beauty she is a much more striking figure than her stepmother, the second wife of the President, and who is also noted for her appearance. Senor Dona Amada Diaz de la Torre speaks English and French fluently and is a popular hostess to many American tourists. With her husband she resides in a beautiful villa in the capital.

For Scalds and Burns.

Carron oil is made of equal parts of linseed oil and lime water shaken together, and it is a most effectual remedy for burns and scalds. As these accidents generally occur in the kitchen, it is well to keep the remedy there.

The way to apply it is to saturate the skin with a cloth and then apply it.

Black stockings should always be washed before they are worn for the first time, for even the best dyes sometimes have a bad effect upon the skin and will make it turn black.

A harmless handoline is made of one-half ounce quince seed, on which pour one-half pint of boiling water and when cool strain and perfume with violet toilet water.

A simple way to remove discolorations from the neck is to rub in fresh lemon juice after washing the neck thoroughly at night and over the juice rub cold cream. Wash off in the morning. Several weeks of this should make the neck quite white.

Health and Beauty Hints.

Bed is not the place for thinking, any more than it is the place for repenting. Thinking is guaranteed to keep one wide awake.

China silk underwear is recommended for women who suffer from prickly heat or other skin eruptions in summer time. It wears well and is easily made. It is a good breeding pen made by a reliable and skillful poultry raiser, that is the best way to begin. Otherwise purchase eggs, as many settings as you wish to invest in, and each from a different breed, but always from a reliable one. From each of these settings you should raise both roosters and pullets. Mark them all carefully and plainly, so that you cannot mistake them, and next spring you will be in a position to mate up two or three breeding pens of your own.

Doesn't Pay to Coddle Alfalfa.

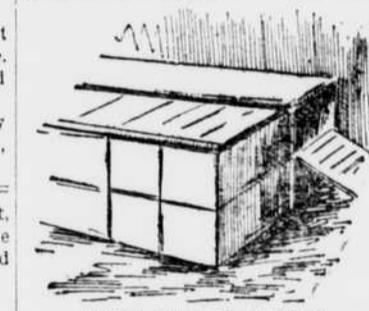

If an alfalfa field is in bad condition it is usually best to plow it up and re-seed. It scarcely ever pays, at least where irrigation is practiced, to coddle a poor stand of alfalfa. Many growers recommend disk-hilling every spring, even when the stand is good, and some have even found it a paying practice to disk after each cutting. Such disk-hilling will often prevent the encroachment of weeds. In the Eastern States alfalfa fields sometimes suffer a check in their growth, tend to turn yellow and otherwise show a sickly condition. Oftentimes this condition is accom-

AGRICULTURAL

Orange Boxes for Nests.

In nearly every town orange boxes may be bought at moderate prices. They make the very best nest boxes, especially if they are arranged in the following manner: As every one knows, the orange box is partitioned through the center, thus making plenty of room for two nests in each box. Take a number of boxes and stand them on end, and fasten them securely together with strips of wood. Then from old boxes or other sources obtain sufficient lumber to make an alley way darkened by a board over the top.

Place a little walk so that the hens may readily go to the second tier of nests. In the rear of each box or nest,

Food and Quality of Milk.

Recent evidence collected by F. W. Wolf of the Wisconsin station goes to show that the food of the dairy cow influences the quality of the milk produced to this extent, that the cow will yield a maximum flow of milk of the highest fat content which she is capable of producing on rations relatively rich in nitrogenous substances. The productive capacity of the cow, the prices of feeding stuffs and of the milk products are the main factors that will determine how highly nitrogenous rations can be fed to advantage.

The German empress is an early riser and sits down to breakfast with the emperor, winter and summer, punctually at 8 o'clock.

Mary Newbler, a California woman who died recently in Rome, bequeathed a fortune to the count of Turin, who is a cousin of the king of Italy.

QUEER STORIES

Norway has a company of men who drill on skates or skis in the winter. It is said that they can get about the country about as quickly as cavalry.

A German newspaper states that within the last decade the population of Europe has increased about thirty-eight million, of whom Russia contributed fourteen million and France less than one hundred thousand.

A plan is now on foot to connect some of the scattered islands in the South Sea by wireless telegraph. It is thought that it will be of great benefit, as there is now no means of communication between them.

William Andres and William Jones, two prospectors, report the discovery of another cave in the southwest portion of Nevada. The cave has been explored to a depth of three hundred feet and shows evidence of a prehistoric race. Between the myriad stalactites that hang from the walls, hieroglyphics have been found. Some stone seats showing signs of use have been discovered. Efforts are now being made to explore the innermost caverns.

John G. Carlisle has discovered down in the fastnesses of Setauket, L. I., a man with a new attribute. Mr. Carlisle spends his summers there and takes more or less interest in the farming operations. "No," said the head farm hand to Mr. Carlisle, in discussing the hiring of a new man, "I wouldn't bother to take on Frank. He wouldn't suit." "Why not?" "Well, because you couldn't place no dependence on his stickin' to the job. He's such a freckle-minded cuss he never stays at any one string."

Two Germans have discovered a method by which they can hear plants grow. In the apparatus the growing plant is connected with a disk, having in its center an indicator which moves visibly and regularly, and this on a scale fifty times magnified denotes the progress and growth. Both disk and indicator are metal, and when brought in contact with an electric hammer, the electric current being interrupted at each of the divided interstices of the disk, the growth of the plant is as perceptible to the ear as to the eye.

JOHNNY LET GO.

Pleasant Anecdote of Our Rough-and-Ready President.

President Roosevelt, on one of his hunting tours in the Adirondacks, spent a very long day in restless pursuit of big game. By the time success had finally justified the chase, he made the discovery that he was a very hungry man. At his urgent request, the guide conducted the party to the nearest inn in the wilderness afforded. The journey was not a brief one, and, by the time the modest hostelry was reached, Mr. Roosevelt was still more hungry.

When informed that the only fare obtainable at the establishment was corned beef and cabbage, involuntarily he made use of the expression which has long been famous:

"Delighted!"

Amusement was created in the Presidential party when the chief executive, whose identity had been kept a secret, was given a seat at the family board. It was increased when huge portions of corned beef and cabbage were passed from the head of the table where sat the host. The first plate to make its appearance was heaped very high. It reached a small boy and got no further. The President sighed to express his envy and disappointment.

"Johnny!" exclaimed the host, sharply, "thet ben't for you; thet be for the other."

Much to the amusement of all, the President seized the rim of the plate on one side while Johnny held the other.

There was a moment of doubt.

Then the President, softly, and with a twinkle in his eye, but with inexorable decision, leaned over and spoke into the red, resentful face of the hungry boy:

"Johnny," he said, "let go."

Johnny let go.—Success Magazine.

The Marrying Bee.

A certain Atchison girl has a trunk in her room, and in it she folds carefully away every new piece of ribbon, lace or embroidery, and also every fancy piece of underwear given her. Every once in a while she opens the trunk, gets down beside it on her knees, and carefully takes every article out, touches it fondly and puts it back again. We know what is the matter with her. She has the marrying bee in her bonnet. A girl always begins to "save things" when the idea of marriage occurs to her.—Atchison Globe.

Has Originality.

Uncle George—I have read your article over, and I must say it shows a great deal of originality. Arthur—Thanks, I'm sure! I flattered myself there were some ideas in it. Uncle George—Oh, I was not speaking of the composition, but of the spelling.

HIGH POSTAGE RATES IN ITALY.

The postage rates are becoming one of the burning questions in Italy, where they are the highest in Europe, and the circulation of letters and post cards, by consequence, the lowest. The lowest postage for any letter is 4 cents, and for a post card about 3 cents. This heavy rate has often been made the subject of complaint, but now something like an organized movement for a reduction has been set on foot. As chambers of commerce are taking the question up, it is probable that something will have to be done.

NO MISREPRESENTATION.

“See here,” exclaimed the irate purveyor to the typewriter agent, “didn't you tell me the machine you sold me was so strong you could drop it out of a window, go down and pick it up and go right to work on it?”

“I did.”

“Well, it fell out of the window accidentally yesterday, and I had to send it to the repair shop.”

“Well you could have gone right to work on it yourself if you'd known how to set about fixing it, couldn't you?”

PUBLIC SENTIMENT ENDS DAY OF DEPRAVITY ON STAGE.

That the public no longer will tolerate degrading, morbid, or prurient productions on the stage has been realized by the New York theatrical managers who stage most of the productions in the country. The fact that public opinion would not permit Nan Patterson to exhibit herself was received with some surprise, but with more relief.

Miss Patterson left the sage after she had received chilling receptions in the smaller Pennsylvania cities, and after the district attorney of one county had forbidden her to appear, on the ground that it would be “an outrage on public decency.”

Commenting on the case, a well-known theater trust manager said:

“Public opinion has improved wonderfully in the last few years. The day

Brown Suet Pudding.

You will find this a very inexpensive as well as an extremely wholesome pudding. You first warm half a pound of molasses, mince a quarter of a pound of suet, and mix into a pound of flour a pinch of salt, a teaspoonful of cream of tartar, a teaspoonful of carbonate of soda, a teaspoonful of cinnamon, and a teaspoonful of grated nutmeg. Now stir in the treacle, add the suet and a half pound of raisins, stir well until all these ingredients are thoroughly mixed, add a little milk, in a scalded and floured cloth and boil for three hours.

Green Peppers and Chicken.

Pepers cut in rings with dull scissars and combined with lettuce and French dressing are as good a simple salad as one could wish for. A delicious made-over dish of chicken is constructed with the aid of green peppers. Cut off the tops of the peppers and scoop out the membrane. Parboil for about five minutes. Cut up the chicken, mix with boiled rice, and fill the peppers with the mixture. Place in a baking pan and pour in enough stock or water, immerse the peppers half way and bake for half an hour.

THAT ALASKA FAIR.

The SENTINEL would in no wise oppose any move on the part of Seattle for showing to the world at large its spirit of progress, and we would gladly join them in any move for its betterment and for showing up the natural resources of Alaska. This is natural, for situated as we are, the success of one locality means the success of the other. But we stand with the Juneau Transcript when it says: "The Transcript is opposed to an Alaska fair held in Seattle in 1907 for the reason that it is an insult to every other city on the Pacific coast that has been friendly to Alaska. It would be drawing all the money out of Alaska and away from her business men to Seattle and her business men. If Alaska will submit to the humiliation there is but little doubt that 'Seattle selfishness' will make a million dollars out of it for they will endeavor to have Alaska bear the expense of gathering the exhibits while Seattle gathers in the moneys from the assembled multitudes. The argument is made that Alaska has not the wherewithal to hold a fair. A better exhibit of Alaska's resources can be held in Alaska for $100,000 than can be held in Seattle for $1,000,000.

The excursion business to Alaska is doubling every year. It is twice this year what it was last and will be twice as much next year and four times as much in 1907. It is estimated that 5,000 people have come to Alaska this year to see Alaska and learn something about her. In 1907 there will be 20,000 people come to Alaska if the increase continues as it has in the past. If Seattle has a fair of her own in 1907 and by extensive advertising draws a half million people to the coast, Alaska by her own efforts can prevail upon 25,000 of them to visit Alaska.

Then let us go to work now and gather minerals and prepare in each town in Alaska that can be reached by excursion steamers and trains, an exhibit that will amaze even Seattle. * * * The excursionists live on the steamers. No arrangements will have to be made for their accommodation. They are all anxious to come, and we all know how eagerly inquire about Alaska, her people and her resources. The steamers can visit any of the coast cities that wish to arrange an exhibit of the resources of that particular community. Another boat will follow until the whole 20,000 have seen—as Congressman Sulzer well says—"the grandest country on earth, God's country." He tells the gospel truth when he says no man can describe it. You must see it and see it in 1907.

The fish hatcheries established throughout Alaska have certainly done a great work, and it would seem have increased the number of fish sufficiently to supply the demands of the various canneries in the district, provided the theory advanced by experts, that salmon return to their native waters, is correct. The Callbreath hatchery is run on a small scale in comparison to some, and yet since 1892 there have been turned loose from this one hatchery 44,791,000 good healthy fry. If the opinion of some that they will return in a given number of years is correct, when their return begin, if they come in annually as turned loose, it certainly looks as if the salmon canning business will receive new life, and those now shut down for lack of fish will be able to resume work. But as Alaska, before many years, will be called upon in the main to supply the markets of the world with this delicious food fish, there should be a hatchery on every favorable stream in Alaska.—Valdez News.

The Transcript is offering all sorts of things for the Alaska fair

THE WAR IS OVER

Oyster Bay, Aug. 30.—President Roosevelt is receiving hundreds of congratulations upon the successful outcome of his efforts to bring about peace between Russia and Japan. King Edward of England wired the president this morning: "Let me be the first to congratulate you upon the successful negotiations for peace, to which you so greatly contributed." During the day wires have been received from nearly all of the crowned heads of Europe, and they are united in their statements according the glory of the end of the war upon Roosevelt.

No formal meeting of the plenipotentiaries has been held since the agreement as to the terms of peace was reached, and no formal meeting will be held until the treaty has been drafted. The treaty will be known as the treaty of Portsmouth, and will be signed at the navy yard. No final arrangements for an armistice have been made as yet.

The terms agreed upon are that Russia cedes the northern half of Sakhalin island without promise to repurchase from Japan. Japan abandons her claims for indemnity and reimbursement for the cost of the war. Russia gets all her interned warships and maintains, as before, her rights to her naval power in the Far East without limitation. It is conceded that Russia gets practically everything that her envoys held out for. The armistice was signed on the afternoon of the 29th, and the Emperors so notified the officers of their war and naval departments.

The journals of nearly the entire civilized world are lauding Japan for her action in accepting the terms of peace. Many of the papers refer to Japan's acceptance of the terms as an act of great magnanimity when she was in position to force peace at almost any terms, but instead contented herself with the ends for which the war was waged and did not include any profit in the settlement.

at Seattle—from Muir Glacier down to icebergs from the Taku. Wrangell does not wish to be behind in this enterprise (?) and can offer several items of interest. If they insist on having an Alaska Exposition at Seattle we can furnish the LaComte Glacier, the St. Johns mineral springs, totem poles in endless numbers, one of the finest canneries on the coast, and many other items, to say nothing of great big chunks of what strikes the outsider most favorably—the finest climate on earth—and will ship it in quantities to suit, in boxes made from out noted Alaska cedars, cut at our 30,000-foot-per-day sawmill. But we Wrangellites would much rather that those who desire to see all of these things would come right here on the ground and see what we have to offer the outside world. That would be a better plan and would be in fact an "Alaska exhibit."

It was too blamed bad that Secretary Hitchcock ordered our governor to remain at home until he was investigated. Here "Alaska Day" at Portland had to run without assistance of the "grand old man;" and although school superintendent Kelly was present he couldn't begin to tell of the things that our neighbors have failed to be cognizant of: One Hills attempted to corner the water supply near this place when he was looking to become sole owner of the town. But several of our citizens headed him off. That was a "horse on Hills."
